Course Page: For course pages please visit <http://www.math.purdue.edu/~egnang> and click on the MA35100 link in the “current teaching” section.

Textbook: Richard C. Penney, Linear Algebra Ideas and Applications, 3rd Ed., Wiley (2008). This course will roughly cover chapters 1-6 of Penney. Of course, some sections may be omitted, and topics from other chapters may be included as I see fit.

Grading Policy:

Here is the short version of how your grade will be calculated:

Exam 1 - 25%

Exam 2 - 25%

Final 3 - 25%

Written homework and Quiz - 25%

Exams: There will be three, one-hour during regular class time exams.

The first exam will be on Friday 02/22

The second exam will be on Friday 03/31

The specific date for the third and final exam has not yet been determined.

Written Homework: I will assign written homework most of which will be from the textbook to be handed in at the beginning of class on Mondays and will be due on Fridays. These assignments are worth a significant portion of your grade so make sure you are handing in quality work. I will not accept late homework, as I will turn over the assignments to the grader for the course almost immediately. Assignments will be graded and returned about a week after collection.

Punctuality: Please do not show up late to class.

Cell phones, iPads, etc: The use of cell phones, iPads, laptops and other electronic devices in the classroom is strictly prohibited.

Makeup Policy: There will be no makeup homework or exams. No exceptions.

Students with Disabilities: If you have an Accommodation Letter from the Disability Resource Center, we should to meet during my office hours to discuss your needs. See office hours and location above.

Email Policies: When emailing me you should include a greeting, use proper English (and write in complete sentences) and sign your name. For questions about homework problems, you must email me at least 12 hours before the homework is due.

Important Dates:

Last day for a student to drop a course

-without it being recorded: January 23, 2017.

-with a W or WF: February 06, 2017.

In the event of a major campus emergency, course requirements, deadlines, and grading percentages are subject to changes that may be necessitated by a revised semester calendar or other circumstances.
